ISBNs

Which products do and do not qualify for ISBNs?

Before completing your application, you should consider carefully whether the products you are publishing qualify for an ISBN. The following products below will qualify for ISBNs:

- Monographic works (books) that are textual and/or have an instructional content.
- Electronic products such as CDs, downloads, audiobooks etc that have a textual and/or instructional content, i.e. not purely for entertainment.
- Journals published no more frequently than once a year.
- Sets of volumes or packs of books or electronic products with a textual and/or instructional content.

The following products do not qualify for ISBNs:

- Serials/periodicals/journals (these are suitable for ISSN)
- Journals, record books
- Videos, DVDs or other media for entertainment
- Documentaries on video/CD-ROM, DVD or other media
- Computer games
- Computer application packages
- Music scores
- Items available to a restricted group, e.g. a course book only available to students on the course
- Websites
- Non text-based publications

Please Note: This list is not exhaustive.

Following a review of the UK market, it is now permissible for ISBNs to be assigned to calendars and diaries, providing that they are not intended for purely time-management purposes and that a substantial proportion of their content is of a textual or graphic nature.

What is an ISBN?

An ISBN is an International Standard Book Number.

What is the purpose of an ISBN?

An ISBN is a product number that is used by publishers, booksellers and libraries for ordering, listing and stock control purposes. It enables them to identify a particular publisher and allows the publisher to identify a specific edition of a specific title in a specific format within their output.

Do we have to have an ISBN?

There is no legal requirement for an ISBN and it conveys no legal or copyright protection. It is a product number.

What can we gain from an ISBN?

If you wish to sell your publications through major bookselling chains, or Internet booksellers, they will in most cases require you to have an ISBN to assist their internal processing and ordering systems.

However in the case of channel-specific e-books such as Kindle on Amazon, ISBNs are not always necessary. You should therefore check if you only intend to sell through that single channel, what their requirements are.

The ISBN also provides access to bibliographic databases, which are organised using ISBN as references. These databases are used by the book industry and libraries to provide information to customers. The ISBN therefore provides access to additional tools that could help sales of your publication.

Where can I get an ISBN?

ISBNs are assigned to publishers in the country where the Publisher's main office is based. This is irrespective of the language of the publication or the intended market for the book.

The Nielsen ISBN Agency acts for the UK, Ireland and other British Overseas Territories. Publishers based elsewhere will not be able to get numbers from the UK Agency (even if you are a British citizen) but can contact us for the details of the relevant Agency.

Who is eligible for ISBNs?

Any publisher who is publishing a qualifying product for general sale or distribution to the market. By publishing, we mean making a work available to the public.

What is a Publisher?

It is sometimes difficult to decide who the publisher is and who their agent may be, but the publisher is generally the person or organisation who takes the financial risk in making a product available. For example, if a product went on sale and sold no copies at all, the publisher is usually the person or organisation who loses money. If you get paid anyway, you are likely to be a designer, printer, author or consultant of some kind.

How long does it take to get an ISBN?

The Standard Service time is 5 working days. This excludes weekends, Bank Holidays and days when the office is closed. We also offer a Fast Track Service that provides a next working day processing period. The processing period begins when a correctly completed application is received in the Nielsen ISBN Agency.

You can also purchase ISBNs online at: www.nielsenisbnstore.com.

How long does it take for my book data to be registered?

Once you have your ISBNs you can publish your book straight away. If you complete the Nielsen Book Title Information form (page 3 of the application), your book data will be sent to be manually registered on the Nielsen Book database. This will take four to six weeks for the first book. Nielsen Book's preferred method of receiving title information, and the best way for you to get your data out to customers as soon as possible, is to use the Nielsen Title Editor service. This is an online service for publishers to add and amend title records. You can register for Nielsen Title Editor: www.nielsentitleeditor.com/titleeditor/. If you encounter any problems, please contact the Nielsen Publisher Help Desk: Pubhelp.book@nielsen.com or call 01483 712 450.

How many ISBNs do I need?

ISBNs are available singly, or in blocks of 10, 100, 1000 and 10,000. Publishers considering a single ISBN should bear in mind that each different format of a book requires a different ISBN. For example, if you are publishing a book in hardback, paperback, Mobi for Kindle and ePub for android, these four different formats will need four ISBNs. In this case an allocation of ten ISBNs will be the most suitable. The ISBN Agency will send your pre-calculated ISBNs in the form of a paper logbook or excel spreadsheet.

Please note that the Nielsen ISBN Agency reserves the right to determine the appropriate allocation size that a publisher will receive.

Can I pass on unused ISBNs to other users?

No. The ISBN is broken down into group prefix, registrant element and the publication element, this means that all ISBNs in the batch allocated to you will show your publisher identifier (the registrant element) and all products identified by ISBNs from your batch will be considered as being published by you.

How do I pay?

Card, cheque, bank transfer or BACs.

Please return the completed payment form and payment details with your ISBN application form. Please tick the box that relates to the size of allocation and service you require.

Please note we will not be able to process your application if payment does not accompany your form. If you require a Pro Forma invoice to arrange payment, please contact the Nielsen ISBN Agency directly.

Cheques should be made payable to Nielsen Book Services Ltd.

For Card Payments, you must supply the card number, expiry date, and security number.

We do not accept: AMEX, Diners or Maestro.

Bank Transfers: Bank: Citibank, Citigroup Centre, 33 Canada Square, Canary Wharf, London E14 5LB

BACS Payments: IBAN: GB56CITI18500813982629

Do I have to pay VAT?

Publishers based in the Republic of Ireland with a valid VAT number or who are based in the Channel Islands or in British Overseas Territories will not be charged VAT on their application. Please ensure that you state the Irish VAT number on your form.

IMPORTANT!

Publisher details WILL AUTOMATICALLY be added to the Nielsen database, as will your book record once your Title Information Form has been received. Details will also be sent to the British Library.

The data is not made public, it is sent out to Nielsen Book's data customers only, such as booksellers and libraries. Please tick the relevant box marked 'N' on page 1 of this form if you DO NOT want data sent to Nielsen Book's data customers. If your publisher record has no contact data, orders and queries cannot be sent to you.

The provision of your book data to booksellers and libraries will help you sell more books by making sure customers around the world have the most accurate, comprehensive, and up-to-date information available about your titles.

How do I complete the ISBN application form?

This is the name you will use to publish your work. This can be either a chosen trading name (for example, Bluebell Publishing) or your own name. This name should be consistent throughout the form, and should appear on your books.

IMPORTANT: Registering a publishing name on the ISBN system does not guarantee that the name is unique and does not in itself confer the applicant any exclusive right to use that name. Whilst the ISBN Agency will endeavour to advise the applicant if the proposed publishing name conflicts with one already on the ISBN system, as with any trading name it is the responsibility of the ISBN applicant to ensure that their choice of publishing name will not breach the rights of any other party.

Publishing Address

This should be the street address of the publisher's editorial office. If you wish to use a PO Box address, this address must appear here. A "c/o" address is not acceptable. All UK addresses must have a postcode. All correspondence from the Nielsen ISBN Agency will be sent to the address you provide here. THIS ADDRESS WILL BE PUBLISHED in various Nielsen Book products such as Nielsen BookData Online and Nielsen BookData Record Supply services; which are used by booksellers and libraries, unless you have indicated otherwise on page 1 of the form. If you have indicated a separate distributor this will also be included.

Publishing Information

This question is used by the Nielsen ISBN Agency to determine the size of the block of ISBNs that can be allocated to you as illustrated by your future publishing plans. We expect an ISBN allocation to be enough for the number of titles you expect to publish over 2-3 years, but we understand that publishing plans fluctuate as part of the nature of the business. The number you enter here should represent the titles already on a production schedule or the number of titles you realistically expect to deliver to the market in the next 2-3 years.

Some publishers do not use ISBNs on their publications initially, but then reach a stage in their development where they feel ISBNs would be advantageous. In this case, a choice can be made to number titles which have already been published and which are still available, which can affect the allocation required, and therefore the fees payable.

NB. Only those titles that are still available (i.e. in print as opposed to out of print) should be included.

When a block has been exhausted, a publisher can apply for an additional block of numbers. For more information on obtaining additional allocations, please contact the Agency.

Payment

Please use one of the payment methods shown on page four of the form. The form will not be processed until payment is received. The quickest method is card payment. Although a bank transfer can take as little as two hours to show online, it will not be visible in the Nielsen daily bank statement for up to three working days.

If you do not want to send card details by email when you submit your form, please submit your form indicating your wish to pay over the phone. You can then either contact us (allowing adequate time for us to have received your form) or we will contact you to take payment over the phone.

How we send your ISBNs

ISBNs and the supporting documentation are sent by email. Lists of numbers are emailed to you in Microsoft Excel format, and the supporting documentation is emailed in PDF.

How do I complete the Nielsen Book Title Information Form?

If you complete the Nielsen Book Title Information Form (page 3 of the form), the form will be sent to be manually registered on the Nielsen Book database. This will take four to six weeks for the first book to appear on the Nielsen Book database.

This is an online service for publishers to add and amend title records. Once you have your ISBNs, you can register for Nielsen Title Editor: www.nielsentitleeditor.com/titleeditor/. Book data registered on the Nielsen Book database is supplied to booksellers, publishers, libraries and other data users around the world via a range of subscription services. This data is not available to the general public.

Illegible forms will be returned to you and may delay your application.

20 – Name and address of Distributor

If you are using another company to deal with your orders and hold the stock of your book, their contact details, including their email address should go here. This is not a retailer who sells the book to customers, but someone who is responsible for your stock and fulfils orders from other organisations. If you do not have a distributor, please leave this area blank.

If your distributor is one of the larger ones, it is likely Nielsen Book will already have the details on record, so you can add just the name, e.g. Bertrams, BookPoint, Gardners, LBS, Lighting Source, TBS, Turnaround, YPS, CreateSpace and Lulu.

NB if you self distribute you will automatically be set to receive your orders (Nielsen BookNet TeleOrders) from booksellers via the Nielsen BookNet Online Order Collection Service. However, to do this we require an email address.

21 – Orders address

If different from publisher/distributor, otherwise leave blank.

22 – Publishing Market Rights

Please show the territories for which the exclusive publishing rights for the title are currently owned. If you have not sold rights to publish this title to another organisation, then you own the market rights for all the territories listed and you should mark the form 'Worldwide'. If you have sold the right to publish in another territory then you should indicate the territories where you will retain the rights to publish this ISBN.

Please note: the fields marked with asterisks must be supplied, even if in a provisional form only. Your application will not be processed if they are incomplete.

Bar codes

Most bookshops have electronic point of sale (EPOS) systems, which enable them to keep track of their sales and to re-order books by scanning the bar code. Retailers can refuse to accept books that are not bar coded. Although the bar code will be derived from the ISBN, the agency does not issue them. Probably the best person to speak to about bar coding is your printer, who may have the software required to convert the ISBN into a bar code. Alternatively, you can refer to www.bic.org.uk, which lists some bar code suppliers in the PDF download called 'BAR CODING FOR BOOKS'.

GS1UK is the regulating trade body for EAN/UCC bar coding in the UK and provides EAN bar codes for products that do not qualify for ISBNs.
